

Manassas Web Firm Gets Endorsement for WordPress Design

Manassas, VA - January 20, 2011 - Sourcing a creative agency for your web site design can be risky, which is why solid references are vitally important. ImagineDesign, a Virginia-based branding and creative firm, has announced their placement on the coveted CodePoet directory of web development firms. This directory lists only firms in the world endorsed by Automattic, creators and developers of the WordPress platform, for demonstrated mastery of this revolutionary content management system.

ImagineDesign is the first - and only - branding firm in the Washington, DC metropolitan area to receive a spot on this list, making them area leaders in WordPress design and development.

"Before we even considered going after an endorsement, we had dozens of web sites designed and launched in WordPress," said ImagineDesign's founder, Patrick King. "It really allows us to focus on what the client wants to accomplish with their web site instead of having to worry about how it will be possible. We've built social media networks, e-commerce sites, traditional B2B and even university web sites - with completely custom design - with no worries about how we may be restricted in terms of design or functionality."
